President of Hayti Receives Formally U. S. Minister.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Following the pacification of Haytian rebels and bandits, Bailly Blanchard to-day was received formally by President and his cabinet as the United States Minister to Hayti. Reports from Admiral Caperton are that the aid of the United States will not be much longer needed.

Contentment—

The man or woman who is careful not to store up trouble for future years is the man or woman who leads the most contented life.

For example, if you are conscious of any strain when using your eyes—attend to them at once.

It may be easy to correct that strain now, whereas if neglected, it may cause serious discomfort.

Have one of our Oculists (Registered Physicians) make a thorough examination of your eyes; if you do not need glasses he will tell you so.

Harris Glasses—if required—cost $2.00 or more, depending entirely upon the kind prescribed and the quality of frame or mounting YOU select.

FAY CAN'T DICKER WITH PROSECUTOR; MUST STAND TRIAL

Bomb Plot Leader Wanted to Get Off With Term of Two Years.

NOW TAKES CHANCES.

Must Answer Two Indictments

—Fails to Reveal "Higher Up" Conspirators.

"Lieutenant" Robert Fay's evident efforts to juggle with justice came to an end to-day in the office of Assistant United States Attorney John C. Knox, when Mr. Knox brought the alleged conspirator and self-confessed would-be destroyer of vessels on the high seas to a showdown. When Fay left Mr. Knox yesterday afternoon, after dictating a statement from 11 o'clock until after 4, he said that he would plead guilty and take his medicine.

To-day was the day on which all five defendants indicted in connection with the attempt to blow up the ships of the allies were to appear in court with the privilege of changing their pleas from not guilty to guilty. None of the defendants were present in court, but all were represented by counsel. All declined to change their pleas and for Fay and Scholz a demurrer to the indictment was presented.

Fay appeared at Mr. Knox's office at 11 o'clock. He told the reporters that there had been a mistake in regard to his demurrer and that he wanted to see Mr. Knox about it. It was evident that his second visit to the Federal Building was to dicker with the Government, but the Government attorneys had nothing to dicker about. Fay had not been in Knox's office ten minutes when the Assistant United States Attorney emerged with a smile and went to the office of United States Attorney Marshall. Soon after his return from there Fay emerged with a deputy United States marshal, who handcuffed him and started back to the Tombs.

Fay experienced a change of heart last night after he reached the Tombs. Then his attorney, P. J. McDonald, accompanied by Attorney Henry W. Unger, put in an appearance. Fay was told what it might mean to him in the event of his pleading guilty, that he would get twelve years in Atlanta, instead of the two he expected. The "lieutenant" was willing to take two years and let his connection with the case be forgotten, but the idea of spending ten years more in prison did not appeal to him.

He asked Mr. Knox to-day if he might plead guilty to the first count in the indictment, which carried a two-year term and have the second count quashed, and Mr. Knox replied emphatically in the negative.

"I told you yesterday," the attorney said, "that you would have to plead to both counts and told you the penalty."

"Now, I remember that you did," Fay answered, "but I didn't understand."

Mr. Knox assured the prisoner that the Government had no dicker to make with him and that he would be convicted. Fay felt quite assured on this point, apparently, so far as the first count was concerned, but his attorney told him that he could beat the second count. Then he was sent back to the Tombs.

The Government did not send for Fay," said Mr. Marshall, after the conference was over. "No one is asking him to stay here, either. He sent word that he had a statement to make and we listened to him. The Government will not bargain with him in any circumstances."

Fay's long statement differs from his first, and in fact from all other statements, but from all accounts it does not give the Government much further enlightenment as to the conspirators. The Government officials are satisfied that they have sufficient evidence to convict the men under indictment, whether or not Fay has anything further to say.

No time was fixed for the Government's answer to the indictment of Fay and Scholz, his brother-in-law. When he is ready for argument on the merits of the case, the Government will notify their attorneys. The trial of the five men will not be held for some weeks.

Agents of the Department of Justice who have been seeking Dr. Joseph Goricar since he told of consular and diplomatic officials being a part of the German and Austrian spy systems here learned that he was in New York to-day and endeavored to arrange for a conference with him. Dr. Goricar is understood to have been keeping in seclusion because he feared the spy system he is exposing would seek to injure him.

"NOT YET," SAYS REDFIELD.

Secretary's Answer to Query as to Whether He Has Resigned.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Following a meeting of the Cabinet to-day Secretary of Commerce Redfield, rumors of whose resignation have been current for some time, remained in conference with President Wilson alone for fifteen minutes. When he came out, in reply to a question as to any possible break between himself and the President, he laughingly replied: "No, I have not resigned yet."

GUNMAN IS SENTENCED.

Offense Committed Long Ago and Witnesses Hard to Find.

Louis Fogel, a notorious gang leader and gunman, was sentenced to the penitentiary for one year to-day by Judge Nott in General Sessions on his plea of carrying a revolver without a license.

Because of the lapse of time, Fogel having been indicted nearly four years ago as a second offender, being a fugitive from justice for more than three years, the gunman practically dictated his own sentence. The District Attorney consented to a prison term of one year after Fogel had offered to plead guilty as a first offense. The chances are that if he had not pleaded guilty the gunman would have gone free, as nearly all the witnesses against him could not be found.
